

SL 15.10

Foaming Flow Analysis with Reaction of Heat Generation for Polyurethane Resin

T. Kono (a), J. Saeki (a), K. Araki (b), T. Iseki (b) and S. Matsuoka (c)

*(a) Production Engineering Research Laboratory, Hitachi, Ltd., 292 Yoshida-chou Totsuka-ku
Yokohama 244-0817 Japan*

*(b) Hitachi Home & Life Solutions, Inc., 800 Tomita, Ohira-machi, Simotsuga-gun, Tochigi-ken, 329-
4493 Japan*

*(c) Department of Mechanical Systems Engineering, Toyama Prefectural University, 5180
Kurokawa, Kosugi-machi, Toyama-ken, 939-0398 Japan*

Reaction of heat generation, density and thermal conductivity of polyurethane resin are formulated by experimental results. A foaming flow simulation was then developed by applying these formulas to a 3D flow simulation program. This foaming flow simulation allows precise determination of a foaming flow process, such as the density change.